

JLHS Parent Teacher Conferences 2020 - Covid Style

Hello Parents, this year's fall parent teacher conferences will look a little different than those of the past, and we need your help. With the continued effort to keep students in face-to-face (f2f) learning, we are working to limit exposures with parents, students and staff as much as possible. Our fall parent-teacher conferences will be done through phone calls or emails by our teachers to you.

Many of you are keeping up to date and communicating with teachers on a regular basis. Many are signed up with "parent portal" or are an "online observer" of your child's classes. If you are in tune with what's happening regarding your child, and don't wish to have a teacher contact you, there is nothing more you need to do, and thank you.

However, if you would like to speak with one of your child's teachers, you may click on one of the email links below and send an email to that specific teacher requesting a phone call. PLEASE SPECIFY which day/date would work best for you to receive a call and teachers will do their best to accommodate you. Teachers will be calling parents on November 5th between 4:30PM and 7PM and on November 6th between 12:30PM and 3PM. These are the regularly scheduled parent teacher conference times. If you would just like an email summary, you can request it from the teacher at this time as well.

Please send an email to the teacher or teachers that you would like to contact you, and include the best day for them to do so. (Thursday Nov 5, 4:30PM-7PM OR Friday Nov 6, 12:30PM-3PM)

We remind parents that f2f and 100% online students are welcome to attend our after school academic support here at the high school on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 2PM-4PM.

Thank you for your patience and understanding as we navigate through all the changes in procedures and protocol. We assure you we are working hard to help students find success in the multiple capacities of learning they are working through.
